

PRESS RELEASE

Luxembourg, the 24th of September 2015.

Labgroup and NG Partners/Xerox mobilise their combined expertise to assist customers in the archiving of their documents to achieve equivalent probative value (PSDC).

Stéphane Nonnweiler, Managing Director of NG Partners - Xerox dealer in Luxembourg - and Bernard Moreau, CEO of Labgroup, unveiled this Thursday 24th September 2015 the benefits of their combined competences in electronic archiving.

Together, the two associates propose a concrete and global offer which goes from the dematerialisation to the destruction of documents, through to electronic document management and the integrated conservation of the electronic archives.

NG Partners/Xerox, specialised in printing and document management and Labgroup, natural candidate for PSDC having been a third party archiver for 38 years, have already defined a strategy concerning the adoption of the law of the 25th of July 2015 relative to electronic archiving.

This new law acknowledges the probative value of electronic copies of paper documents that therefore allows their destruction, and creates the PSDC status (Dematerialisation and Archiving Service Provider). The electronic archives, created and maintained by a certified company, benefit from the same legal value as the original document.

Companies can benefit by these advances in the law, enabling their users to:

- scan the documents easily on a multifunctional device (preferably XEROX!),
- OCR-process and index automatically the documents to ease future research,
- transfer confidentially the electronic copies to Labgroup for secure archiving, probative archiving or for archiving of evidentiary value,
- manage electronically all documents,
- find easily archived documents thanks to a research engine such as Google
- defend effectively your interests in case of litigation by producing the substantiating documents.

Furthermore, users will be able to continue to digitize paper documents without any need of change, the benefits of this solution offered by NG Partners/Xerox and Labgroup are numerous:

- secure dematerialization of the information flow
- increased compliance and guaranteed traceability
- time savings in the research of information
- greater productivity compared to classic methods

« Thanks to the association of our competences, many companies which may not have the critical mass to become a PSDC-, can now scan their documents by the certified production facility of Labgroup, therefore being part of the digital evolution towards a paperless office, or at least with less paper! » explains Bernard Moreau, CEO of Labgroup

« It is a real opportunity that we have in the realisation of this partnership; we each have our own specificities and unique associated competences to respond to the market challenges of the dematerialisation and of the probative value of electronic archiving. We want to be the first to propose a simple offer, low-priced and so available to all companies. » adds Stéphane Nonnweiler, Managing Director of NG PARTNERS.
